

Mental Health Awareness Month

Magic of Self-Care Tracker

You can use this tracker in either digital or printed form. Each day of the challenge, track a self-care activity in the corresponding box.

Check out our examples to help you get started, or pick any activity you prefer that supports your emotional wellbeing.

Self-care activities

- Take a 10-minute walk. No goals, just move and breathe.
- Have a screen-free meal. Enjoy it fully.
- Enjoy a warm cup of tea or coffee and sit quietly while you drink it.
- Give yourself permission to pause and rest for a few minutes.
- Revisit a hobby or interest that feels like “you.”
- Celebrate a small win. Even if you think it “doesn’t count,” it does.
- Spend 30 minutes reading something purely for pleasure.
- Spend 10 minutes visualizing a place where you feel calm and safe.
- Unfollow or mute one account that drains you.
- Do 15 minutes of light exercise that feels good for your body.
- Spend 5 minutes outside noticing sounds, colors, or textures.
- Make a balanced meal that helps you feel nourished and supported.
- Treat yourself to a slow morning. One relaxed hour.
- Choose a “phone-free” hour. Protect your peace.
- Try a mini meditation or guided relaxation. 3–5 minutes is enough.
- List three things that genuinely bring you joy.
- Watch a favorite movie or show that brings you comfort and gives your mind a break.
- Explore a new article or topic you have been curious about.
- Create a relaxing evening by keeping your phone away until the next morning.
- End your day by asking, “What did I learn about myself today?”
